NBA passing networks, 2022-23 season

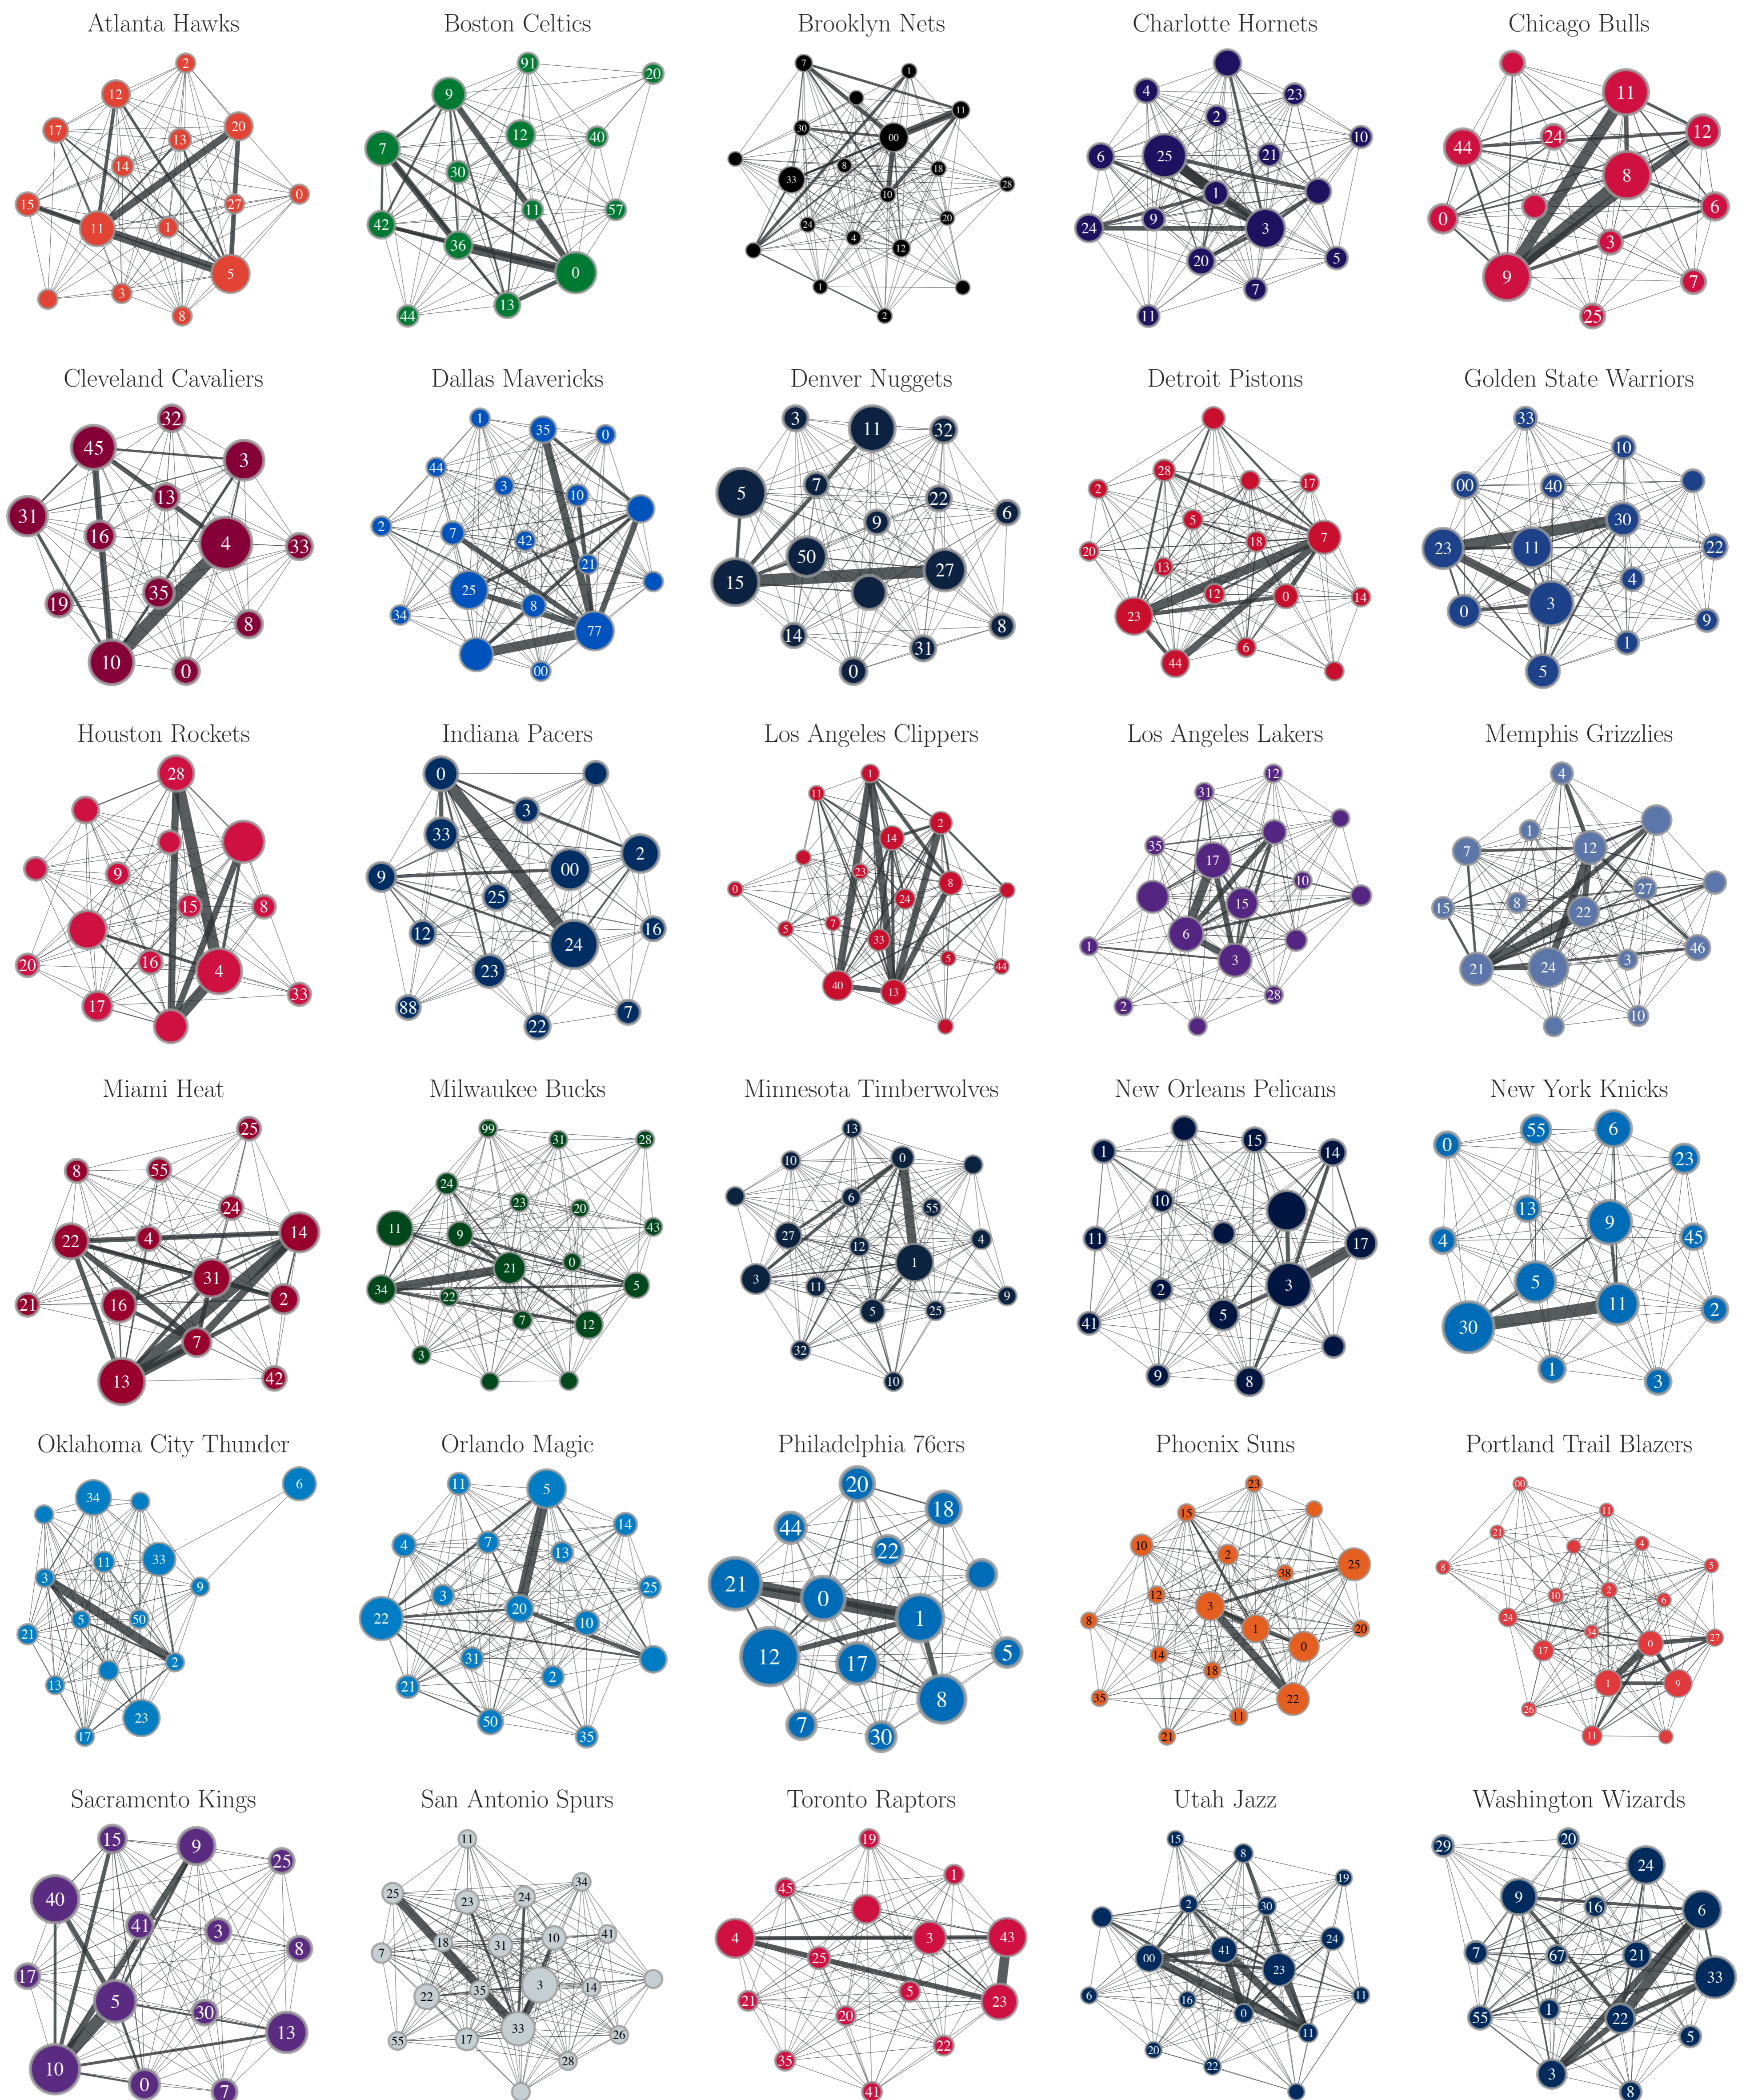

NBA offenses are evolving towards what has been branded "Heliocentism", namely the tendency of the offensive system to rely on one single decision-maker to carry the offensive load. Is this heralded rise in heliocentrism supported by the data?

Players are represented by nodes, whose size is proportional to minutes played throughout the season. The edges show the volume of passes between each two players.

Data source: www.nba.com/stats

Pierre[1] and Thomas[2] Robiglio
[1]Einaudi Institute for Economics and Finance (EIEF), 00187, Rome, Italy
[2]Department of Network and Data Science, Central European University, 1100 Vienna, Austria